On-Demand Instructor-Led Training

Enabling Long-Term Skills Adoption

To maximize the learning experience and enable the long-term adoption of skills and techniques taught in classes, Symantec Education is pleased to supplement classroom learning with our new Symantec On-Demand Instructor-Led Training.

Our new On-Demand Instructor-Led Training enables more successful learning by allowing students to 'replay' any section of a classroom class they attended. Students can relearn technical skills immediately prior to using those skills in their production environment.

On-Demand Instructor-Led Training includes not only the full course materials, but also a recording of an actual class; complete down to the last spoken word. The transcript of the class is fully searchable, including questions asked during the session by students and the instructor response. On-Demand Instructor-Led Training is like an employee support program that lets you step back into the classroom.

On-Demand Instructor-Led Training Highlights

On-Demand Instructor-Led Training from Symantec provides you with a powerful way to capitalize on the training content you received when you attended a classroom course. On-Demand Instructor-Led Training enables your continued learning with:

- Fully documented scrolling transcript of the instructor's lecture
- Robust interface to browse and search for the exact knowledge needed--down to the individual slide or spoken word
- Variety of media and file types, ranging from streaming audio/video and downloadable MP3/4 files to PowerPoint files and related documents
- Recorded video of the classroom session that includes questions from participants and the instructor responses
- Access to the recorded session for a full year

Practical Benefits

- Extensive Search Capabilities—allow for easy access to the technical, detailed, learning you receive from a classroom-based course.
- Learn as Needs Arise—on your time, at your computer learning allows you to review training on product features immediately before you use them in your environment.
- Captured Q&A—questions and responses from the class are fully documented providing additional context and situational knowledge beyond the course guides
- Portability—use the downloadable files to learn in offline situations (downloadable MP3/MP4s)
- Peace of Mind—because the training is from Symantec, you can be assured that it includes the most up-to-date content available.
